

As a government entity you are charged with serving the best interests of the American people. As of late you have failed miserably. Media consolidation only serves the bottom lines of corporations, not the common people.

Money will not save any of us from the impending disasters that our country is involved in.

Please wake up and do as you are charged. Please have a heart. Please access your conscience and examine what you are doing to our country.

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. But when large companies control the airwaves, we get more of what's good for the bottom line and less of what we need for our democracy. Instead of something produced at "News Central" far away, it's more important that we see real people from our own communities and more substantive news about issues that matter.

Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them. They show why the license renewal process needs to involve more than a returned postcard. Thank you.
